Methods

Following is the second article on synthetic fuel production using Pennsylvania coal as a base.

By John Harms
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—(INS)—The production of synthetic gasoline and oil from coal today was hailed by State Mines Secretary Richard Maize as "a boon to the Pennsylvania coal industry and the commonwealth."

"The Federal Government's multi-million dollar program to develop the commercial production of gasoline and oil from bituminous coal offers the coal industry broader markets and is a boon to it and to the commonwealth in general," he declared.

"It means to the industry a great deal," he emphasized, "and in spite of what anyone says the scarcity of petroleum makes it imperative for us to seek other means to obtain liquid fuels."

"The tremendous reserves of coal in America means we must depend on coal for synthetic gasoline and lubricating oils," he said.

The Federal Bureau of Mines has in operation a pilot plant for researching two methods of producing synthetic liquid fuels from coal at Bruceton, Allegheny County, and other research projects along the same line at Pittsburgh. Private petroleum interests are cooperating in the studies.

Maize predicted that petroleum industries must eventually get into the coal business "within the reasonable future."

Should a major part of the synthetic gasoline and oil industry settle mainly in the West, Maize said, "Pennsylvania bituminous coal still would benefit because other uses would be open to it."

"If the present trend of soft coal consumption continues, and there is all likelihood it will with the de-

Thrilled With Model Flying At Exhibition

A group of Aeromodelers attended the World Hobby Exhibition in Philadelphia. Exhibits by leading model aircraft and engine manufacturers and expert model fliers thrilled club members. Last year the Aeromodelers staged a flying exhibition in a special cage. This year the exhibition was staged by a large number of members of the Mayfair Model-makers.

Extremely high winds kept the club from having its weekly flying session on Sunday. A few of the clubs more ardent model fans were on hand at the club field and some flying was done.

Because of the increasing membership and need for something of interest to attract all members to the meetings, interesting activities are being planned. On November 30th several Air Force "movies" will be shown. Of special interest will be a showing of films taken at large model contests. These films are 1½ hours duration. They cannot be shown on a Wednesday evening. Club members will decide when they would like to view these films.

Expect Large Group To Attend School Conference

The largest number of new school directors to ever attend a special county conference is expected tonight, at the County Education Building, Doylestown. In the past election forty-four new school directors were selected in Bucks County, this number being twice the turnover recorded in the county in any election in the past quarter of century.

The special conference will have on its agenda an outline of the following important school laws: secondary school costs, reorganization of school districts, work of State Tax Equalization Board, State Aid and Public School Building Authority.

Paul L. Gruber, audio-visual aids director, will give the new directors an introduction to visual aids including a film from the County Film Library and a teacher training film from the County Institute Library. The new directors will be introduced to the various types of teaching materials on Bucks County.

The Bucks County Conferences for new school directors has been held bi-annually, since 1941, and as far as it is known, are the only ones ever held.

MAN AND WIFE MAKE ESCAPE THROUGH WINDOWS WHEN FLAMES ENVELOP AN ADJOINING ROOM; DOG AWAKENS THEM

CROYDON, Nov. 23.—A man and his wife made their escape through windows when the interior of their home was considerably damaged by fire early this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Appleby, 1375 Minot Avenue, College Park, were awakened at two o'clock this morning by the barking of their pet dog. Opening the door of their bedroom they were confronted by flames and smoke, and found that the adjoining room was seething with flames.

It is believed that the fire originated from an oil stove which apparently leaked. The flames spread to a day-bed and then flames fanned out over the walls and ceiling.

Mr. and Mrs. Appleby were asleep in a room, the door of which opened into the room where the flames seethed. This cut off their escape and they climbed through windows opening onto the side lawn.

Croydon firemen battled the flames.

George C. Hardin, executive secretary of the Friends' Peace Committee, addressed the meeting of Women's Christian Temperance Union last evening. He spoke of the problem of working for world peace as being a compound one. "First of all, we must work for the spiritual changing of men's hearts, in order that they may want peace instead of war; second, that there must be some form of world government through which peace may be maintained, and third, there must be day by day efforts to live peacefully with those of other nations by the orderly process of friendly give and take and diplomacy."

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is not a day for soft individuals seeking perfection in earthly living. If there were nothing to be concerned about, how would gratitude be stimulated in the human breast? There would be no contrast to suggest a reason for thankfulness.

It is only as man lives in time of peril, or with suggestions of imminent peril confronting him from which he has thus far escaped, that he feels the urge to bow before a Providence that has guided him safely.

An ideal state would soon pall. Man isn't built to cope with the monotony of unchanging material and spiritual weal. That is why few rich people are really happy and why a cultural or spiritual achievement is not satisfying. The urge for something else, possibly better but at least a change, is universal.

The Pilgrims fled from unsettled political conditions which seemed unbearable to them. They faced danger in a risky ocean voyage and in the unknown perils of a wilderness home. In their new surroundings they faced hardships at least the equal of any on earth today.

But they also had individual initiative, community cooperation and determination to win better things. And for such victories as they had over a cruel environment they were grateful. Their spirit of gratitude has endured to this day because of their fortitude in the face of hazards.

It is this fortitude which the world needs to regain—a fortitude born of the mutual realization that this day has many problems that must be solved as the Pilgrims solved them, not by fighting one another but by pledging themselves to strive together to repulse the adversaries that beset us.

TORPEDOED TEAL

A Minnesota duck hunter was given quite a start when his wooden decoy started swimming around all by itself. A large pickerel, it turned out, had swallowed the small anchor-weight on the end of the decoy's line.

In Delaware a hunter noticed a greutewing teal—smallest of all marsh-feeding ducks—whirl in and pitch in front of his blind. There's nothing dancier or prettier than this tiny duck that weighs little more than half a pound and flies like a jack-snipe. But a duck's a duck, and the hunter was about to stand up and flush the teal for a shot when he noticed it was in mortal trouble. From its frantic splashing he deduced a snapping turtle had hold of it.

It can be taken for granted the Minnesota gunner had no special sympathy for the pickerel, a tigerish fish that eats baby ducks when available. But the Delaware gunner didn't see anything funny in the little teal's plight. Putting down his gun, he went to the rescue—too late. When the turtle let go the duck was dead.

He said he just wanted to go the duck away from that blankety blank turtle so it could fly away!

Thanksgiving Day

THANKSGIVING DAY, as every school child knows, got its inception when the Pilgrims, grateful for their first harvest, set apart a day of thanksgiving in 1621. The Massachusetts Bay Colony began observance of Thanksgiving in 1639, Connecticut in 1639 and the Dutch in New Netherlands (New York) in 1644. The Continental Congress appointed Thanksgiving Days during the Revolutionary war (except in 1777). President George Washington declared Thursday, Nov. 26, 1789, as Thanksgiving Day. President James Madison, following a resolution by Congress, declared a day of Thanksgiving at conclusion of the War of 1812. President Abraham Lincoln appointed the last Thursday of November, 1864, as Thanksgiving Day and this day was observed as such until 1939 when President Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed an earlier date. A joint resolution of Congress in 1941 declared the fourth Thursday in November a national legal holiday and it has so been observed ever since.

Synthetic Oil Production Boon To Coal Industry

velopment of synthetic fuel production," Maize said, "the State will gradually double its annual output."

He predicted coal production would be doubled within "30 to 40 years."

In 1498 the State's soft coal production reached 131,969,999 tons, according to the Department. Pennsylvania's bituminous coal reserves are estimated at 75 billion tons by the Bituminous Coal Institute.

Maize predicted that "eventually" all homes will be heated by synthetic oil made from coal.

He said synthetic fuels are being produced on a small scale by researchers "almost as cheaply as fuels from petroleum." Other sources indicated synthetic gasoline is being produced within one cent per gallon as the cost for gasoline from petroleum.

The importance of a broad synthetic fuels program has been underscored by Director Boyd of the U. S. Bureau of Mines. He said: "With only seven per cent of the world's population, the United States uses 70 per cent of all oil produced on the globe and 50 per cent of all minerals. The United States does 40 per cent of the world's work through the use of energy obtained largely from mineral fuels."

"It is obvious that the country eventually must anticipate the use of coal as the primary source of our mineral fuels such as petroleum, gas and synthetic products. The United States has much larger coal reserves than either petroleum or natural gas."

"The Bureau of Mines, in cooperation with industry, is experimenting with coal to obtain cases for generating electric power and raw materials for synthetic liquid fuels," Boyd declared.

the children's interest and good behavior.

Fourth grade pupils have been studying Indians, both in reading and history. A display table has been arranged in the hall of the school for all the children to enjoy. On this table is a collection of many things pertaining to Indian life. One would see topees, beaded work, weaving done on looms by the children, pottery made of clay from Nashaminy Creek bed, arrow heads, drums, head-dresses, blankets, a long-type house used by the Iroquois tribe, card-board figures fashioned by the pupils to show Indian costumes. Several flash-photos of the display were taken.

An art committee was selected by the class to make a wall mural showing different phases of Indian life that had been discussed.

The following room mothers have volunteered to help the teachers at lunch time: Mrs. Robert Weldman, Mrs. Roland Zepp, Mrs. Roderich Cary, Mrs. Henry Adams, Mrs. Traber, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Spicer, Mrs. Trojan, Mrs. McBride, Mrs. Mahoney, and Mrs. Ference.

Nancy Reiser and Diane Gittens of grade one have moved to Mayfair.

Pupils of one of the first grade rooms visited Walnut Grove Farm and the William Puglia's farm in connection with their study of the farm unit. Many fine activities came out of these excursions, namely, a lovely picture of "Old MacDonald's Farm," a farm made of blocks and clay animals, many songs about animals and of the farm. Stories about the excursion were written. The children are making booklets, sent by the Dairy Council, on farm animals and health.

A colorful display of posters from the Children's Book Council in the hall at Croydon School proclaimed book week. The well-arranged table display of new books attracted the book lovers for it held treasures of interest and wonder for children of all grades. The display was changed from day to day. These books will soon become a part of the school library. The library contains 600 titles. Sixth grade girls act as librarians.

Wednesday is dental day at Croydon school. Mrs. Baird, the school nurse, accompanied 15 children from the grades on a journey to the dental clinic at Temple University, Philadelphia. The trip was made by school bus. The P.T.A. is sponsoring this project.

An honor was bestowed upon the Newportville fifth grade last week. This was in the form of an invitation from Henry Decker, assistant principal of the junior high school, to display its Pennsylvania exhibit at the junior high building for a week. The invitation was gladly accepted and a committee of students went to the junior high to assemble the exhibit. This exhibit consists of 30 groupings of raw materials, farm products, and manufactured goods all made in Pennsylvania. These are shown against an original map of Pennsylvania illustrating the location of the items.

For Newportville school black-out shades have been secured for the windows, thereby increasing enjoyment of visual educational program. Funds used to purchase shades originated from the profits of last year's candy sales.

In coordinating real experiences with the study of Mexico a visit was made by a committee of Edgely sixth grade students to the Bristol Travel Agency. The visit was made to secure information needed to visit a country of Latin America.

The committee was greeted by Samuel Gratz who gave the students valuable information. The students reported to the class that one had to have positive proof of American citizenship, one may stay for six months, $400 worth of gifts or souvenirs may be taken out of the country without tax; our money would have to be exchanged for Mexican currency.

The committee composed of Carol Moyer, Elmira Weber, Warren Fisher, Richard Plowman with their teacher had an enjoyable and educational experience.

The educational film "Perfect Tribute" was shown in the township schools, commemorating the 86th anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

To the pupils in the 9th and 10th grades of the Bristol township junior high school, Friday evening was a momentous occasion. "Farmers" of Bristol township attended the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. Over 125 pupils crowded into the library of the school to see if the bachelors could elude the maidens and remain in their happy state of ignorance.

The dance was sponsored by the student council, but inaugurating a new policy; actual arrangements were made by Miss King's home-room, 10-H-15.

For weeks there had been a fever of excitement in the home-room in preparation for the occasion. In the beautiful setting of the "Dorchester Ballroom," decorated with pictures of "Daisy Mae" and "Lil Abner," students danced away their worries. The highlight of the evening came when an outstanding program was offered by the students.

Special music was given by "The Dogpatch Serenaders," a musical organization of the school. Donald Zepp, Alton Brundage, David Sperling, and Walter Pfender comprised the "musical" orchestra. Patricia Phipps thrilled the audience with her toe tapping. The thespians of the school: Lorraine Carango, Janet Plowman, David Scott, and Frank Breece offered "The Viper," an original skit. Acrobatics by Joan Pries, popular exhibitionist of the school, brought forth cheers of enthusiasm. "The Village Choir," a short play, was presented by Geraldine Tesser, Marion Cross, Janet Plowman, Lorraine Carango, Jean O'Brien, Bertha Eager, and Janet Gelsebach. Throughout the evening, "Daisy Mae" (Jean Caswell) and "Lil Abner" (Dave Scott) could be seen and admired by the residents of the community.

Let Us Give Thanks

When the Pilgrims observed the first Thanksgiving they did so not in the gay holiday spirit to which we have become accustomed. Rather, they took the occasion to give thanks for their new found freedom. And, as they met around the festive table, they had their trusty flocks at arm's reach, for their freedom was still at the mercy of the Red Men, who resented their intrusion.

Today, as we approach another celebration of this holiday, our freedom is still not as secure as we may think. For, as we join our friends at turkey dinners and football games, there are those who would overthrow our hard-earned democracy and substitute Communism or some other form of totalitarian government for the free enterprise system which has made this nation the greatest on the face of the earth.

So, as we give thanks for our prosperity, perhaps it would be wise if we, too, placed our trusty flocks at arm's length, ready to fight for the things we hold dear. We must not take our blessings for granted. Twice in the last 25 years we have had to take up arms and go to battle to insure the continuance of our way of life.

Now we face another challenge, a boring from within. Unfortunately, a good many people who are leaning toward the "isms" are doing so because they think they are going to get something for nothing. They really don't understand what the consequences will be, only that they have been promised a Utopian life. Therefore, it is up to us, who have seen how these same "isms" have operated to curb human freedoms all over the world, to convince those who would trade their present blessings for a "pig in a poke" philosophy that they are making a terrible mistake.

It isn't going to be easy, for the exponents of statism are well organized. Their principal weapon is propaganda and they have been expertly trained in how to make the most of our mistakes, however slight they may be. We, too, can make good use of propaganda, fighting fire with fire. In your every day dealings take pains to solidify your present contacts, as well as make new friends by treating them as they expect to be treated under our democratic form of government.

If we follow the Golden Rule in our dealings, not only in the spirit of the holiday on the day of the actual observance, but in the days to come, this Thanksgiving cannot help but be one we will long remember.

Half of Bucks Boroughs
Now Consider Zoning

C. Butler, burgess of Quakertown, who also extended a welcome to the visitors. The minutes of the previous meeting, as well as of the meeting of the board of directors, were read by the secretary, Francis J. Byers, of Bristol. The treasurer, D. Russell Bond, of Newtown, presented his financial report, and stated that all boroughs have paid their membership dues.

There was further discussion upon amending the by-laws so that the election of officers of the association would more closely harmonize with the election of councilmen in the various boroughs. It was proposed that the election of officers be held in February, but after further consideration the suggestion was referred back to the by-laws committee for further study. A number of councilmen elected to office on November 8th for the first time sat in at the meeting as observers.

An invitation to meet in New Hope February 28th was extended and accepted.

Following the address of Mr. Cella there was an extensive question and answer period by councilmen from the various communities which are considering the zoning problem. G. Thawley Hayman, Doylestown, who is president of the Bucks Co. Association, announced that J. Robert May, Langhorne, vice president of the association; Walter Unnagst, Quakertown; and C. Eldon Clements, Doylestown, have been named as a committee to cooperate in the entertainment of the state association of boroughs, such entertainment being planned by the borough associations of Bucks, Chester, Montgomery and Delaware counties.

Cars Crash at Andalusia And Hit Parked Vehicle

GUESTS REMEMBER
CENTERPIECES WHICH SHOW IMAGINATION

By Miss Frances Vannoy

Home Economics Extension rep.

A centerpiece that reflects the taste and imagination of the hostess is one that guests will remember. You may use a fruit or floral arrangement, a vegetable grouping, candles, figurines, or a combination of these.

A small decoration with simple lines is more attractive than one which crowds the area allotted for it. Colors should harmonize within the centerpiece itself and blend with the colors in the china and linens.

For this time of year, fruits make colorful and attractive decorations when skillfully arranged in a bowl, on a flat platter, or on the table itself. A few fruits are better than many.

Vegetables placed in a gaily-painted toy cart, a small low basket, a wooden tray, or directly on the table make interesting decorations. Almost any vegetable may be used. Choose a few vegetables for color and contrast in form.

25th Annual Banquet To Be A Big Affair

Toastmaster I. Johnston Hetherington, Sr.

"The Junior Cadet Corps is more than deserving of this banquet for their outstanding achievements since 1926," state post officials. During the years 1932-33-34 and 1935 they received highest honors at the Pennsylvania state competitions, and in 1936 the corps was runner-up at the national convention in New York, N. Y. During World War II the corps temporarily disbanded, and in 1945 re-organized under leadership of Arthur Straccio. Since then has been regaining its high position amongst corps, "and we have every reason to believe that in the very near future it will be on top, right where it belongs," it is added.

Advertisements are being solicited by the Corps for the souvenir program to help make this affair a huge success. Everyone is invited, and tickets for the banquet can be obtained from any member of the Junior Cadet Corps, Banquet Committee, or at the Bracken Post Home.

History of Veterinary Medicine is Presented

ANDALUSIA, Nov. 23 — That the practice of veterinarian medicine is over 4,000 years old, as attested by Biblical reference, was one point brought out by Dr. Samuel S. Scheidy, of the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, last evening, when he addressed Bensalem Rotarians in King hall. Dr. Scheidy is also veterinary medical director at a Glenolden laboratory.

The speaker informed that the first organized school of veterinary medicine started in France in 1663, "but it was not until the Civil War that the United States realized the importance of the health of its horses in waging a successful campaign."

He mentioned that the discovery that tuberculosis could be traced to cows caused the ultimate establishment of a veterinarian school at the University of Pennsylvania, a direct outgrowth of the School of Medicine. He added that during the last century attention has been directed more and more toward animals other than horses.

"Despite the great advance in control and elimination of disease, the death rate in cattle and poultry is high. Most of this loss, however, is due to lack of co-operation by the raiser, or accidental death such as freezing, starvation, etc."

"A 1941 survey showed that of the graduate veterinarians, 65% are practicing their profession, 16% are federal employees, 8% state employees, 6% are in research and education, 3% in miscellaneous commercial work, and 1% in the army."

"Where there were 10 veterinary medical schools before World War II, there are now 17. Requirements are becoming increasingly strict. Two years of college credits are required for entrance, four years of study constitute the curriculum, with the fourth year devoted to clinical study. In 1950 Pennsylvania will become the first state to require one year internship to be eligible to take the state examination."

Changes in Teaching Methods Are Discussed

CROYDON, Nov. 23 — The Croydon Parent-Teacher Association meeting was opened with Bible reading by Mrs. Mary Devine, principal of the school, last evening. Lorraine June Snyder rendered several selections on the piano and also accompanied group singing.

Mrs. Devine introduced Mrs. Dorothy McCollom, Bristol township elementary school supervisor, as speaker of the evening. She spoke of the progress of the child's development throughout his school year. She described how modern teaching methods have had to be changed in relation to change in living conditions. "Reading, principally, has had to be taught in an entirely different way," she stated.

"Physical, mental, emotional and intellectual forces," Mrs. McCollom said, "are really set in the environment of the child's home." She explained how and why the modern method of teaching reading is used in the present-day school.

Treasurer Herman Wilcock submitted his report. Harold Roberts tendered his resignation as vice-president and Mr. Taylor was nominated for the office. Ernest Hamilton reported activities of the dental clinic committee. Playground equipment had been purchased, it was reported by Mr. Owsik.

A speaker on sex education for children has been scheduled for either the February or March meetings. A combined meeting and Christmas party has been planned for December 20th in the school house.

Mrs. Rae's third grade won the award for class representation. Five new members joined.

Myers Have Anniversary At "High Breeze Farm"

PLUMSTEADVILLE, Nov. 23.—The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Eli W. Myers was observed at "High Breeze Farm," a few evenings ago.

Open house was observed when neighbors and friends, children and grandchildren and other relatives arrived to felicitate the Myers and make the day a memorable one.

The marriage ceremony of Mr. Myers, a son of the late Cornelius and Anna Myers, was performed at the home of Christian and Anna Meyers, the parents of Mrs. Myers, by the Rev. John Leatherman, who at that time was one of the ministers of Deep Run Old Mennonite Church. Mr. and Mrs. Christian Meyers at that time lived on what is known as Applebutter road, the dividing line between Bedminster and Plumstead townships.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. A. Britton Peterson

Union Church, Edgely

Tomorrow will be national Thanksgiving day. As a nation we thank God for good crops, good wages, and great prosperity in general. As individuals we thank God for our schools, our homes, and our churches, for an open Bible and for freedom to worship God according to the dictates of our own consciences. Above all for God's gift of His Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift."

"Bobby" McBrien and "Dick" Sinton, Michael received gifts. Mrs. Howard Ferguson, Philadelphia, is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peterson, New Buckley street.

FOUR GRID GAMES BOOKED IN AREA FOR TOMORROW

Four games will be on the menu for the football fans of this section tomorrow. The games will be played at Morrisville, Fallsington, and two at Langhorne.

Three of the games are Lower Bucks County League tilts with the outcome of two of the games practically deciding the final championship.

Bristol meets Morrisville at 10:30 a. m. on the Robert Morris field, Morrisville, in their 22nd annual meeting. The contest will be a toss-up. Bristol is in the midst of a three-game winning streak and in these games have played the best ball for the past few seasons.

The Warriors will rely on its formidable passing attack with "Bill" Condit doing the throwing, while the Bulldogs still have their Bob Felver, one of the leading scorers in Lower Bucks County.

Bristol, with seven wins and three defeats, has scored on every opponent this season and has 164 points to its credit. Morrisville has won three games, tied one, and lost four. One of the losses was a forfeited game to Pennsbury.

However, in comparing the records of the schools that both teams have met, it seems that Morrisville will have a slight edge. Coach Gordon Davies' team held Trenton Catholic to a 12-12 tie, while Catholic swamped Bristol, 32-7. Morrisville beat Langhorne, 19-7, while the Warriors lost to the Redskins, 9-7. On the other hand, Bensalem trimmed Morrisville and was routed by Bristol. Morrisville laced Council Rock, 32-7, while Bristol's best was a 19-6 win over the Indians.

Both teams need the victory to help their league standing. Langhorne and Bensalem are tied for first place with 7 points each. Morrisville and Bristol have six points each.

In a tilt starting at 10 o'clock at Langhorne, Bensalem will meet Langhorne. A triumph for either team means the Lower Bucks County championship or at least a tie for the crown. However, should a game end in a deadlock, there is a possibility that the LBCL could end in a three-way tie for first place.

Bensalem's record for the season is five wins, three losses, and a tie. Langhorne's log is five triumphs, two defeats, and a deadlock. Also at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, Pennsbury High will play a home game, meeting Pemberton at Fallsington. This game was arranged after the season got underway.

In the only afternoon contest scheduled, Southampton and Council Rock will clash in their annual game. Site of this game will be the Langhorne high field. Game will begin at two o'clock.

Council Rock is in the cellar of the Lower Bucks County League, while Southampton is in sixth place. A Council Rock win will enable it to tie the Greyhounds for sixth position.

Paterson Executives

To Attend Convention

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—Six executives of the Paterson Parchment Paper Company, Bristol, Pa., have registered to attend the 54th annual Congress of American Industry in New York City, December 7, 8 and 9. The convention, sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers, is the nation's major gathering of industrialists.

They are R. T. Anderson, vice-president and general manager; E. R. Leonard, vice-president in charge of sales; J. T. Leonard, treasurer; H. J. Kendall, assistant treasurer and secretary; J. R. Dufford, assistant general manager; and W. R. Richter, personnel manager.

For more than half a century the most significant meeting of American manufacturers, the Congress will bring together some 3,000 managers and executives of companies, some with fewer than 25 employees, and others with many thousands.

All types of industry in the nation will be represented.

The industrialists will hear top-ranking leaders in business, government and finance discuss the many vital problems affecting industry and the country as a whole. Included will be such topics as jobs and opportunity, security, labor relations, patents and research, international relations, and taxes and their effect on prosperity.

Cooperation and teamwork among nations, labor, business and government will form a broad area for discussion by more than a score of recognized leaders in different fields.

They will stress the human factor in industry, the need for industrial peace, American dollars and world trade, world recovery, the nation's stake in its farms, and "socialism by default."
